

Frederick Douglass Quotations

August 4, 2024

Main quotation for theme of Sunday, August 4th:

All great qualities are never found in any one man or in one race. The whole of humanity, like the whole of everything else, is ever greater than the part. Men only know themselves by knowing others, and contact is essential to this knowledge.—Frederick Douglass

ADDITIONAL QUOTES

Man is man the world over. . .A smile or a tear has no nationality. Joy and sorrow speak alike in all nations, and they above all the confusion proclaim the brotherhood of man.

Where there is no truth, there can be no trust, and where there is no trust, there can be no society.

All the world is a school.

Remember that we are one, that our cause is one, that we must help each other, if we would succeed

The spirit of caste is malignant and dangerous everywhere.

We must educate ourselves.

What a glorious day when we have this United States in fact and in truth what it is in theory—the land of the free and the home of the brave.

The true doctrine is one nation, one country, one citizenship and one law for all people.

You live and must die, and you must do your work.

The types of mankind differ like the waves, but are one like the sea.

A wrong done to one man is a wrong done to all men.

Opportunity is important, but exertion is indispensable.

There is no standing still.

Every advance has been sternly resisted.

The rights of the humblest citizen are as worthy as are the those of the highest.

All great reforms go together.

Truth is mighty and will prevail.

Education means light and liberty. It means the uplifting of the soul of man into the glorious light of truth, the light by which men can be made free.